(Name of Non-Profit Organization) Enforces Whistleblower Policy to Combat Fraud and Insure Donor Confidence Using TeleSentry Reporting Services

CITY, State, & FAIRFIELD, Conn., XX. XX, 2009 – (Name of Non-Profit Organization), a respected non-profit organization, has taken a pro-active stance to combat the risk of fraud and the industry-wide erosion of donor confidence by providing all their employees, vendors and consultants the ability to anonymously report any of their concerns using their website or a 24-7 Whistleblower Hotline.

“It is essential to stop fraud at all levels of the non-profit industry.” said (Spokesperson for Organization). “We are offering a visible assurance of our integrity by establishing a reputable system of reporting any suspicious activities and acts of wrong-doing.”

The toll-free number 1-800-XXX-XXXX and secure web reporting page is made available to all employees, volunteers and consultants. Anyone can speak to a live operator or file a report on the web with the assurance of anonymity in reporting their knowledge or suspicion of questionable behavior.

“The TeleSentry Whistleblower Hotline and Web Reporting Module for non-profit organizations is easy to use and instantly offers a safe, anonymous method to report fraud” explained Joe Gagliardi, President of TeleSentry. “Non-profit organizations are able to significantly limit their exposure to liability by eliminating the possibility of retaliation against a Whistleblower.”

TeleSentry, a trusted name in security, currently supplies hundreds of thousands of employees, stockholders and vendors of publicly traded companies a Sarbanes-Oxley (SOX) compliant anonymous reporting hotline. Non-profit organizations are in the headlines daily with news of financial distress and scandal and the new internal fraud reporting requirements on the 2008 IRS tax forms. Public confidence has been jeopardized in the entire industry. Organizations like (Name of Non-Profit) are leading the efforts to provide transparency and restore peace of mind.
